Over the past 10 years Steven has worked with several innovative, niche Tour Operators & Cruise Lines. He has specialised in private train, river cruise & small ship expeditions developing wholesale client relationships in key markets around the world.

Prior to his tourism career Steven held management positions in the market research departments of two large consumer goods companies analysing buying behaviour and trends in retail. A corporate sabbatical took him to many exotic destinations in the Southern Hemisphere setting him up for a career in the travel industry.

With his in-depth knowledge and expertise Steven supports Bartelings in further developing its unique private jet business with partners around the world. Steven is passionate about experiential, upscale travel and with his in-depth knowledge of the luxury travel industry adds considerable know-how in our work with existing and new partners around the Globe.
